

LEAP OUT OF AUTO, SHOOT AT MAN AND ESCAPE IN SUBWAY

Two Young Gunmen Wound
Fugitive Dashing From Doorway Across 14th Street.

Policeman Curtis of the Fifth street station, standing at Fourteenth street and Third avenue, early today, noticed a black touring car enter Third avenue from Fifteenth street, follow the avenue to the corner where he stood and then turn west in Fourteenth street. Curtis glanced idly after it, but suddenly started at full speed toward the machine, blowing his whistle for help as he ran.

He had seen the automobile proceed almost to the subway kiosk at Fourth avenue and there turn back on its tracks as a man dashed from the door of a haberdashery at No. 116 East Fourteenth street. Two youths, most noticeable for the long peaked caps they wore pulled over their eyes, leaped from the machine and opened fire with revolvers at the fugitive, who was dashing from the doorway toward Irving place, directly across Fourteenth street. "Help! Help! I'm shot!" yelled the runner, who had clapped a hand to his forehead at the report of the first shot. Only two were fired. Sleepy taxicab drivers, doting on their machines, awoke at the sound of the shots and the yell, and Fourteenth street was stirred into unusual activity for that hour.

Through the crowd the men who had done the shooting fled to the subway station and disappeared heading down the steps. The auto, with a roar of its engine, started east at full speed, almost running the policeman down. It disappeared toward Second avenue. The fugitive rushed up Irving place to Fifteenth street, where he leaped into a taxicab and was driven away. Curtis followed the two men into the subway, but could find no trace of them. The station at Fourteenth street is a maze with several entrances, and the men might have entered by one stairway and left by another, which would have taken them a block away from the point of entrance. The police notified all hospitals to be on the watch for a man with a bullet wound, but no such person called for aid. Detectives were assigned to the task of discovering the identity of the combatants, but were not successful. They believe that the shooting was the result of a gambling row, for of late many small gambling houses have been opened up again on the lower east side.

A LETTER FROM THE CHILDREN'S HOME

I have 40 or 45 children here at the children's home constantly. When they are weak or run down I always give them Father John's Medicine to build them up. They all gain rapidly under the treatment the medicine affords. Whenever they get cold or have a cough or throat irritation Father John's Medicine gives prompt and sure relief.

Little Stanley Peabody, two years old last February, has been with us since he was two months old. I am sure that his life was saved by Father John's Medicine. It cured him of bronchitis. I gave it to him on the advice of our house physician.
